Issues

Strategies

Sources

Foreign affairs research with government information

- ▶ Diverse sources (memos, correspondence, reports, treaties...)
- ▶ Varied topics (intelligence, diplomacy, security, aid, sanctions...)
- ▶ Levels of access (published, in archives, classified/declassified)
- ▶ Complex interactions (among branches and agencies)
- ▶ Changes over time (to agencies, departments, agendas)

My strategies: availability and accessibility

▶ What's available?

- ▶ time period
- ▶ country/region
- ▶ topic or incident

▶ What's accessible?

- ▶ published documents
- ▶ archival records
- ▶ classified/declassified
- ▶ databases or microfilm

My strategies: bibliographies & secondary sources

- ▶ American Foreign Relations Since 1600
 - ▶ “Magisterial!” says the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations (<https://shafr.org/publications/american-foreign-relations>)
- ▶ The Craft of International History: A Guide to Method (Marc Trachtenberg)

Who is responsible for foreign policy?

Department of State

- ▶ Created in 1789 to oversee international relations of the United States, implement foreign policy, and operate diplomatic missions
- ▶ The chief executive officer of the State Department, the Secretary of State, advises the President on foreign policy
- ▶ Responsibilities also include public diplomacy, foreign aid, and development assistance
- ▶ <http://state.gov>

State Department publications include:

- ▶ Country and travel information: <http://www.state.gov/countries/>
- ▶ Diplomatic List: <http://www.state.gov/s/cpr/rls/dpl/>
- ▶ Bilateral Relations Fact Sheets: <http://www.state.gov/r/pa/ei/bgn/>
- ▶ Country Reports on Human Rights Practices: <http://www.state.gov/j/drl/rls/hrrpt/>
- ▶ Country Reports on Terrorism: <http://www.state.gov/j/ct/rls/crt/>
- ▶ State Magazine: <http://www.state.gov/m/dghr/statemag/>
- ▶ Earlier publications: Bulletin (1939-1989) and Dispatch (1990-1999)

FRUS: Foreign Relations of the United States

- ▶ Produced by the State Department's Office of the Historian since 1861
- ▶ Consists of documents from the State Department, the Department of Defense, National Security Council, the CIA, and other foreign affairs agencies, as well as documents from Presidential libraries and some personal papers
- ▶ "The official WikiLeaks," according to one of my colleagues

How to access FRUS

- ▶ Department of State Office of the Historian: <http://history.state.gov>
- ▶ University of Wisconsin Digital Collections: <http://uwdc.library.wisc.edu/collections/FRUS>
- ▶ HeinOnline (subscription database)
- ▶ In print!

Overview

The editors of the volume focused much of their selection on documenting the most serious U.S.-Soviet confrontation of the Cold War, the Cuban missile crisis and its aftermath. Although the crisis itself was short, it was so intense that it absorbed the entire attention of President Kennedy and his closest advisers. Much of the documentation printed in this volume relates to discussions with key Soviet officials through a variety of channels ranging from Kennedy-Khrushchev letters to communications through an American newsmen with a Soviet official. Because of space constraints, the editors have included only the most important examples of the frequent and detailed consultation with key allies regarding the crisis.

81. Telegram From the Department of State to the Embassy in Brazil Source

Source: Department of State, Central Files, 737.56361/10-2662. Top Secret; Niact; Eyes Only. Drafted by Martin, cleared with U. Alexis Johnson, and approved by Rusk.

Washington, October 26, 1962, 2 p.m.

1055. Ambassador from Secretary. We believe time has come for representative friendly country to discuss with Castro alone predicament in which Soviet actions have placed him. We also believe Brazilian Ambassador in Havana is best person to do this and therefore wish you to see Hermes Lima as soon as possible to secure his agreement to instruction to their Ambassador along following lines. This approach to Castro should be handled in such way as make absolutely clear to Castro it is solely Brazilian initiative. Naturally we would hope matter could be handled by Brazilians with greatest discretion. In this connection we feel strongly that need for complete secrecy between FM and Ambassador in Havana only, and absolute accuracy, is so great that the instructions should be taken to Havana by special courier in special airplane as soon as possible (FYI. Important should not be any Brazilian cables referring this subject. End FYI.) Report reaction niact.

FRUS is fantastic! Except...

- ▶ It only begins in 1861
 - ▶ A source for earlier foreign relations information: American State Papers (<http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/amlaw/lwsp.html>) covers 1789-1817
- ▶ There's a significant time lag
- ▶ Historians and other scholars often express dissatisfaction with the declassification process

Microfilm??

Yes. Microfilm.

Microfilm collections from the National Archives

- ▶ State Department Consular Despatches
 - ▶ Reports to the Department of State from U.S. diplomatic representatives stationed abroad. Years of coverage vary, but most documents are from the late 19th through early 20th centuries.
- ▶ State Department Central Files
 - ▶ “Records of the State Department Relating to...”
 - ▶ “Confidential U.S. State Department Central Files”
 - ▶ Foreign affairs and internal affairs
 - ▶ Especially strong for early-mid-20th century
 - ▶ Some of these files records are included in Gale’s Archives Unbound collections

More than just the State Department on microfilm...

- ▶ Records of the Office of Strategic Services
 - ▶ CIA Research Reports
 - ▶ Records of the Joint Chiefs of Staff
 - ▶ National Security Files (organized by administration)
- ▶ Major publishers: National Archives, University Publications of America, Primary Source Media

The president is the commander-in-chief, the chief negotiator, and the chief diplomat but the Congress makes laws, must ratify treaties, and appropriate funds.
